Lifting super guarantee to 12% would make distortions worse

1. Reduce disposable income via lower wage growth
2. Cost extra $2b a year
3. Increase inequality
4. Does not address underlying problems

Per cent of GDP

Alternative to lifting super guarantee to 12%

Make concessions more progressive: 15% flat tax on contributions/earnings with a flat-rate refundable tax offset.

$180,001-$250,000	$54,097 plus 45c for each $1 over $180,000	15.0%	30.0%
$250,000 and over	$85,597 plus 45c for each $1 over $250,000	30%	15.0%

Barriers to reform

1. The superannuation industry
2. ALP tied heavily to union-owned industry super funds. Labor also created the system.

Investment Implications:

---

- Issues with alternative asset pricing: private equity, venture capital, unlisted assets, illiquidity
- Probably going to get worse before it gets better
- Slow moving, super funds more of a passenger than a driver
- There are exploitable pricing anomalies - but probably without instant gratification
